‘FIGHTING AS HARD AS I CAN’

Hancock’s Relay for Life Honorary Survivor LiLi Stahler-Murphy remains positive during battle with ovarian cancer

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

Your whole life attitude changes,” LiLi said of her cancer diagnosis. “You never really think about dying until you have a life-threatening disease.”

In March 2016, LiLi was diagnosed with ovarian cancer and the doctors started her on four cycles of chemotherapy, 12 treatments all together.

She also underwent surgery followed by another four cycles.

Doctors considered her cancer free in September 2016.

For the first year, LiLi had blood tests every three months.

However, in 2018, she had a recurrence and started chemotherapy again and was considered cancer free again in January 2019.

Doctors also prescribed Zejula, an oral medication that is supposed to delay the next recurrence.

“Once you have a recurrence, they anticipate you will have more,” she said.

Her last recurrence happened in November 2019 and she is currently undergoing the second cycle of chemotherapy.

“The good news is I haven’t lost my hair this time,” she said. “It’s the biggest thing that happens, especially for women. Most of the time, I don’t think about having cancer, but when I’m bald and I look in the mirror, it is emotionally challenging.”

LiLi said that ovarian cancer is “really serious.”

“They don’t catch it early because it is asymptomatic,” she said. “By the time it’s caught, it’s Stage Three or Four. For my age and type, I’m really on borrowed time. I truly believe I wouldn’t be here now if not for the doctors, prayers, and good will from my family, friends, and all of St. Rose Catholic Church.”

In addition to killing the cancer cells, LiLi said, chemotherapy treatments also kill the good cells. She has to have blood tests before every chemotherapy treatment to determine if she can take it.

“I couldn’t take the last round,” she said. “Now, I don’t know how long I can do this and what I do when I can’t.”

From 2006 to 2014, LiLi served as an alderwoman for the city of Waveland. While she was in office, the city had to rebuild all the public buildings, streets, and sewers after Hurricane Katrina.

LiLi was instrumental in opening Waveland’s Ground Zero Hurricane Museum, located at 335

BAY-WAVELAND SCHOOL BOARD TALKS DANCE PROGRAM AND HONORS THE DISTRICT’S PARENTS OF THE YEAR

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

The Bay-Waveland School District Board of Trustees on Monday heard from parents who have concerns about the high school’s dance program.

P.J. Mauffray, who has two daughters in the dance program, spoke to the board on behalf of the students and parents gathered at Monday’s meeting.

One of his daughters is a middle school Tigrette and the other is a freshman at Bay High School and a member of the Steppers team.

“Recently, much has been made by my girls, some of their friends and teammates and parents of other dancers with regards to the Steppers and the future of the Bay High dance program,” he said.

Mauffray said that dance may be classified as an “art” but should also be considered a “sport, complete with long hours of physically intensive practices.”

Mauffray said that he is aware that the employment and duties of an employee lies with the administration.

“When it comes to program and policies, this board does have a say,” he said. “The Steppers are much more than a competition team, which as you may know, have recently brought home three state titles in the past five years, all under the direction of Coach (Angie) Farve.”

Mauffray said the Steppers also perform at football games, pep rallies, community events, parades, and recitals.

“The decision yet to be made by the administration and/or this

UPDATE: Bay P.D. concludes probe into ‘racist doll’ controversy

BY GEOFF BELCHER
GENERAL MANAGER

The Bay St. Louis Police Department announced Thursday evening that there would be no arrests in the “racist doll” controversy that arose during a Feb. 16 Mardi Gras parade, but said it would forward all information gathered in the case to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The investigation began at around 4 p.m. on Feb. 16, Bay St. Louis Police Chief Gary Ponthieux Jr. said in a press release, after a complaint that a white man riding in a parade float during the Krewe of Nereids parade threw a black doll with beads around its neck to an African American child.

“The family of the juvenile reported the doll had a Mardi Gras bead wrapped around its neck and that it indicated racial hatred,” Ponthieux said.

“The Bay St. Louis Police Department initiated an investigation and it was determined the assorted stuffed dolls and animals, which were distributed by the parade participants, were all hanging by Mardi Gras beads prior to being thrown,” Ponthieux said. “As part of the investigation, the police department obtained statements from the complainant, witnesses and parade participants, which were conflicting. All parties involved have been cooperative during the investigation.”

Coleman Ave., in 2013.

“Basil Kennedy said to me that we need a hurricane museum and I said I know just the place,” LiLi said.

The museum opened its doors in August 2013 on the eighth anniversary of Katrina, she said.

LiLi credits her support system for helping her live her life to the fullest, including her husband, Donald, two daughters, and two granddaughters.

“My wonderful Donald drives me to chemotherapy all the time,” LiLi said.

She also is a member of the “Swimming’ Women,” which is a summer water aerobics program LiLi hosts at her home.

“They are a marvelous support group and behind me 100 percent,” LiLi said.

She also speaks highly of the nurses and doctors at the Gayle and Tom Benson Cancer Center at Ochsner Medical Center in New Orleans.

“All these people taking care of you,” she said. “The nurses are wonderful. It’s not all bad. I’ve met so many lovely people and learned so much about cancer. If I had had this 10 years ago,

I would have died. They’re not going to cure it now, but I don’t think I’d be here if not for the strides that have been made in cancer research.”

LiLi said she continues to play an active role in her community and life.

“I don’t have time to think about myself,” she said. “I can get depressed if I have too much time on my hands.”

LiLi was named one of the Hancock County Relay for Life’s Honorary Survivors for 2020, which she said came as a “surprise and delight.”

LiLi said that attitude plays a big part when dealing with a cancer diagnosis. She also makes an effort to eat right, exercise, and look her best.

“You got to have faith, good attitude, and good medical care,” she said.

As far as living in the city of Waveland, LiLi said she wouldn’t live anywhere else.

“I love it here,” she said. “I made a vow to see the beach every day. It’s so pretty, like Heaven on Earth.”

The Hancock County Relay for Life is scheduled for April 4 from 4 to 9 p.m. at the Hollywood Casino’s walking path, located at 711 Hollywood Blvd., Bay St. Louis.

This year’s theme is “2020 is the Year of Hope in Hancock County.”

CLARK WINS SPECIAL ELECTION FOR DH WARD 4 COUNCIL SEAT

BY GEOFF BELCHER
GENERAL MANAGER

The city of Diamondhead has a new city councilman -- Charles S. “Chuck” Clark on Tuesday defeated Melissa Reed Graves in a special election to fill the Ward 4 council seat vacated by former Councilman Kodie Koenenn after he was elected to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

“It was a great win for Ward 4 and a great win for Diamondhead, I do believe,” Clark said Tuesday after the election. “We’re just going to try to make Ward 4 better and see what kind of issues and problems we can fix and improve.”

Clark earned 265 votes on Tuesday, compared to Graves’ 55. As of Tuesday evening, City Clerk Jeanie Klein said, there were seven affidavit ballots remaining to be counted, but they obviously wouldn’t affect the outcome of the election.

Election commission members said Tuesday that voting had been brisk, considering there was only one position on the ballot.

“Compared to our last special election, it was a good turn-out,” Klein said.

The election results won’t be certified until the affidavit ballots are counted, Klein said. That should happen some time on Wednesday, and Clark could be sworn in right away.

“He’ll definitely be sworn in by the next council meeting,” she said. Clark said he had already been in contact with other members of the city council.

“I’ve been congratulated by just about every member on the council and we’re all looking forward to working together,” he said.

HYLA Kicks off New Year with Jr. High Program

The future is bright for twenty-two Hancock County eighth graders who have been chosen to participate in the Hancock Youth Leadership Academy. The class is comprised of students from all four middle schools in the county (Bay/Waveland

“We are so excited to be able to offer this program for the ninth consecutive year! This year, twenty-two board regarding the future of the Steppers and the dance program at Bay High and whether it will continue to be offered as a block each day will have an impact on the lives of all involved, particularly these dancers here on the Steppers team whose input should be considered and not silenced under the threat of discipline, which has occurred,” he said. “The impact of these decisions will also impact other students who participate in dance as an elective, whose only access to dance may be through this program.”

Mauffray said moving dance to an after-school-only activity would force many of the dancers to decide between dance and other after-school obligations.

“I’m not here tonight to demand answers or insist on being a part of any official decision of the administration or this board,” he said. “However, with the amount of time and resources that dancers and parents have put in over the years, it would seem this input would be welcomed and appreciated.”

Mauffray said that more parents of the dancers attend the football games than parents of the football players.

“They are active, they participate, they show up,” Mauffray said. “As a group, these girls deserve to know what will change, if anything, so plans can be made now before opportunities to participate in other activities overall.”

He also asked that the students be told when and where practices will take place, who will be their coach, and to know why there was a change.

“Because we all feel like they’re already on a winning team,” Mauffray said. “In closing to consider, how long has it been since football had a winning team and brought home a state title? If the Steppers’ block is being terminated, can we expect an equal response and change of direction with football as well? And I think not. Why? Because it’s football and this is only a bunch of girls. Girls who love dance as much as boys love football.”

The board did not respond to Mauffray’s concerns.

After the meeting, BWSO Superintendent Dr. Sandra Reed said the district is evaluating all programs and that no final decisions have been made.

In other action:

The board recognized the Parents of the Year for each individual school as well as the district’s Parent of the Year as follows: Bay High School–Steven Cooksey; Bay-Waveland Middle School–Alicia Dorsey; North Bay Elementary–Donna Allen; and Waveland Elementary–Lacey Fischer. Allen was named the District Parent of the Year.

The board elected trustee Casey Favre as board president and Vicki Arnold as secretary.

At the request of Arnold, the board moved the consent agent item “2020-2021 Administrative Salary Scale” to the action agenda.

The motion to approve the salary scale passed three-to-two with Favre, Mark Kidd, and Mike Bell voting “yes.”

Arnold and Ann Lathrop voted “no.”

After the vote, Arnold read a statement about why she voted “no.”

Arnold said that “we all agree that our students are our number one priority.”

She added that she is in support of the district’s Pre-K initiative, which will require teachers, and supplies.

“As we continue to achieve our vision of having our vocational department expand, I would strongly recommend to the administration that we move forward in this direction and add more courses to that vocational plan so we can eventually have our own vocational department,” Arnold said.

“Thirdly, I would like to remind the administration that we have cut our music program at the elementary level.”

At the time, Arnold said, cutting the program was something that “needed to be done.”

“But now I think we’re in a more positive situation to have those funds available to energize our fine arts department and reinstate the music program, which was eliminated at the elementary, but also to incorporate chorus and drama as it used to be back in the day at the high school,” Arnold said. “We have so many students at this district who are not athletically inclined and do not participate in sports, but they have other talents, and I feel like they are being overlooked or denied. And I would love to see these programs put in place. And once our obligations to our students and our taxpayers have been fulfilled, I think then we can entertain salary increases.”

After the meeting,

Reed said she “agreed” with Arnold’s comments and that the district is looking at ways to reinstate fine arts on all levels.

The next board meeting is scheduled for April 13 at 5:30 p.m.

Ponthieux said the man who threw the doll has been identified “and is not a resident of the Coastal counties.” The man’s identity has not yet been released to the public. “As a result of the investigation, the Bay St. Louis Police Department has determined no state statutes or city ordinances were violated and there was no intent of hatred. The Bay St. Louis Police Department has not received any additional complaints regarding inappropriate, indecent or racially motivated acts. “The Bay St. Louis Police Department has forwarded all information obtained during the investigation to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.” Attorney Michael W. Crosby, who is representing the family which made the complaint, said in a social media statement on Thursday that Ponthieux and other city officials had advised the family of the results of the investigation, including that there would be no arrests and the information would be sent to the FBI. Crosby said the incident, “along with certain comments, ... traumatized their child as well as the parents. The trauma does not end with the family, however. In fact, it has caused the entire community to suffer as well. “We have been careful to avoid saying or doing anything which could impair the investigation, because we want the investigation to be fair, thorough and result in justice. “We understand that the city will present the FBI with its investigation. Perhaps the federal law is more applicable for this type of situation. Obviously, we remain concerned.”

A FADING Dream?

I feel like growing up in small cities like Bay St. Louis and Waveland gives people a greater appreciation for small businesses.

For the past 19 years, Connie from Hairworks in Bay St. Louis has been the only person to touch my hair.

Beth at Face and Body Advanced Aesthetics has been keeping my runaway eyebrows in check for years, as well.

And my mornings wouldn't be complete without a double dirty chai latte from Mockingbird Cafe.

It doesn't end there. When I can shop and eat local, I certainly do. Even when I'm visiting other towns. I especially enjoyed visiting Saugerties, New York, which has an adorable downtown area.

Which is what I do enjoy about working for the hometown newspaper versus something larger.

I've written stories about some of my former classmates, teachers, and more.

It's interesting to see what everyone has been up to since we parted ways in high school.

One of my childhood friends, Brooke, started her bakery project B.A.K.E. (Building a Kinder Environment) and I had the opportunity to write about the project for the Picayune Item newspaper.

Now, she has her own successful bakery, Dolce Bakeshop in Long Beach, and recently opened Dolce Cafe in Gulfport. I've been to both and can honestly say that the baked goods and food are quite the culinary treat.

On the flip side, I see more and more small businesses open and, sadly, close soon after.

I often wonder if it was a person's lifelong dream to open their own small business and then to see that dream crumble. I can only imagine the heartbreak.

It seems the world is now overcome by bigger corporations, technological advances, and our own desires to shop using our electronic devices from the comfort of our homes.

I often wonder how long it will be before people won't dream of opening their small business and instead join the other worker bees in a corporate giant.

In a smaller working environment, the employees become almost like a family. We care about each other, talk about our problems, and even share in personal triumphs and show support during times of grief.

In a large company of thousands of employees, I'd be surprised if some of the higher-ups knew some of the employees' names, which is admittedly hard to do with so many.

With the rise of online shopping and such, even larger stores like Toys "R" Us closed its brick-and-

Wicker: Coronavirus is No Cause for Panic

U.S. IS WELL-PREPARED TO ADDRESS NEW HEALTH CONCERN

Americans are right to be concerned about the coronavirus, which has affected parts of China, Japan, South Korea, Iran, and Italy, as well as the United States. Health experts believe the virus will continue to spread around the world. Government at every level is taking this problem seriously. However, as our country deals with a very real threat, it is important for us not to allow emotion to obscure the facts. The U.S. is well-prepared to address this challenge.

Public alarm about a potential outbreak is nothing new. In recent years, Americans have had cause to worry about the spread of Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome (SARS), bird flu, swine flu, and Ebola. These diseases were contained and now pose relatively low risks to human life and health. With an appropriate response, the coronavirus can fall into the same pattern.

There is no need to panic. Among the known cases, the overwhelming majority of patients recover. Regrettably the virus has led to death in a significant number of cases. As with many other illnesses, those at greatest risk are elderly or have underlying health conditions. Many of those infected by the coronavirus have few if any symptoms and may never even be reported.

From the Senate
By Sen. Roger Wicker

It is vital that the spread of coronavirus be contained while in its early phase. In China, where the virus is most widespread, only a tiny fraction of the population has been infected. By comparison, since last October, 32 million people in the U.S. have been infected by the seasonal flu, leading to 18,000 deaths. What makes coronavirus particularly troubling is that it is new and in many ways still unknown. Humans have not built up resistance to this virus as we have other infections, and health professionals are still in the beginning stages of developing treatments and vaccines.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT IS TAKING DECISIVE ACTION

The Trump administration has taken decisive steps to counter the spread of this virus. Vice President Mike Pence has assembled a team of health policy experts, led by Dr. Deborah Birx and Dr. Anthony Fauci, who can use their expertise and credibility to provide clear information to the public.

President Trump quickly imposed travel restrictions from China and other affected areas. Passengers from high-risk regions are being screened for symptoms before they arrive in the U.S., and those who have been exposed to the virus are being quarantined for an appropriate period of time.

This past week I attended a subcommittee hearing on the role of global aviation in containing the spread of infectious diseases. Witnesses from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the Department of Transportation, and Customs and Border Protection agreed that the President's efforts are working.

Congress is also providing additional resources to support the response. The funding package passed by the House and Senate will give health-care workers the tools to treat patients safely. Additionally, the bill will expedite the development of effective tests, treatments, and vaccines for the coronavirus.

PREVENTION, NOT PANIC

Health experts recommend taking the same standard precautions that are used to avoid the seasonal flu and the common cold: wash your hands regularly with soap, use alcohol-based hand sanitizer, cover your coughs, avoid touching your face and mouth, keep surfaces sanitized, and stay home if you feel sick. And it is not too late to get a flu vaccine.

“We Could Lose Our Businesses”

There has been talk in our Mississippi State Legislature about allowing wine to be sold in grocery stores, especially in large box stores throughout our state. Now, a Mississippi lawmaker introduced a bill to the legislation, converting talk to potential action. The reason for a “wine in stores bill”; convenience to the consumer, a popular trend, generate more tax revenue and no effect on the over 600 licensed package stores throughout the state.

Mississippi does not have large metro markets like New Orleans, New York City, Miami and alike. Reality, private and family owned package stores, some owned and operated for generations, will close because 50% of their revenue will be lost. No increase in tax revenue, only dilution of the current revenue. Box stores buy bulk which means massive competitive price reduction, local package stores can't compete. And when you need to know which wine to choose for a dinner or special event, you will have only a row of shelves to talk to.

Small and independent business men and their families who own and operate package stores in Mississippi have lived, worked and given back to their community for decades. Have hired local individuals, been good stewards in their business judgement and followed in good faith the covenants and guidelines that were established between the wine and spirit business and the State of Mississippi. Why should they now have their livelihoods be jeopardized or lost based on a whim or a trend.

mortar stores. I was so sad about that one. I grew up walking down the aisles of that store and eyeing all the toys. I even remember the Sears' Wishbook, which had pages of toys to look through while I made a Christmas list. I really hope that Main Street USA and small businesses are not headed towards extinction. My friend Brooke had a dream to open her own business and made it happen. It is a success and beloved by the community and beyond. I am definitely not opposed to technological advances and some corporate entities, because after all, it does provide more jobs for people. But, I hope it doesn't come at the expense of the working people and dreamers in small towns across the United States and even the world. I like the relationship I've built with my hair stylist, Connie. She has been a support system throughout many of my life's trials. You can't get that kind of treatment or friendship at a larger chain-type establishment. The girls at the Mockingbird Cafe know my name and have my order memorized. One day, I will throw them a curve ball and change it up. Ha ha. But it's these personalized touches that make doing business in the Bay and Waveland so special and keep me and others coming back. She was born in Bay St. Louis, MS, on Jan. 19, 1935, to Lillian Maynard Taconi and Joseph E. Taconi, in the front room of the little house on Second Street which is now the Mockingbird Cafe.

She met and married Ellis C. Cuevas 59 years ago.

She worked as a CNA at Hancock Medical Center in the nursery for 26 years.

After her retirement, she loved and took care of animals.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Lillian and Joseph Taconi.

She is survived by her husband, Ellis C. Cuevas; sister Mabel T. Monti (Tony); nieces Denise Monti, Amy Monti Corr (Kerry) and Susan Monti; great-niece Kathryn Moran (T.J.); and great-nephew Matthew Corr (Katie); and two great-great nieces.

She was a life-long member of Main Street United Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis.

Services will be on Thursday, March 12, 2020 at Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis. Visitation is 10 a.m.-noon; service at 12 noon. Burial will follow at Gardens of Memory Cemetery in Bay St. Louis.

Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis is in charge of arrangements.

BYRON PATTON FAVRE

When he was five years old, Byron Patton (Pat) Favre, unlike many of his playmates, didn't dress in a Superman cape or in a cowboy hat with a cap pistol tucked in a holster on his side.

For a formal picture, he selected a full World War II military dress uniform, hat to toes a replica of the real thing. Little did he know that one day in the not too distant future he would indeed wear the real thing for 20 years. Only then, it would be an Air Force uniform and the ribbons on his chest would attest to a career brilliantly served, a career of fulfilling his oath with honor, a career that took him across the globe and into the Vietnam War.

He died on March 5th at home, surrounded by family and love.

Pat was born in New Orleans on January 6, 1940, the son of Alphonse Gabriel and Inez Blaize Favre of nearby Bay St. Louis, MS, the seventh and youngest son and the ninth of 10 children. He was named after a close friend of his father, long time Mississippi U.S. Senator Byron Patton Harrison.

After graduating high school in 1957 from his hometown St. Stanislaus College and one year at Millsaps College in Jackson, MS, he found his calling in the Air Force. Following his initial training he was accepted at the U.S. Military Academy preparatory school in Virginia. Then it was on to navigation training, where he earned his wings in July 1961, and an assignment in the electronic warfare program.

Pat flew a total of 122 missions over Vietnam in the midst of the controversial war that would claim thousands and thousands of casualties. The first 22 missions were as the electronic warfare officer (EWO) in B52 bombers. The next 100 were as part of a secret program initiated by the Air Force in October 1965. It was called the Wild Weasels and was created after it was discovered that Soviet surface-to-air missiles (SAMS) were being deployed against U.S. aircraft. A select group of pilots and EWOS were chosen to participate in the program.

Their mission was to locate enemy anti-aircraft radar and either destroy it or target it for other aircraft. At least one description pictured it as being bait for the enemy. How dangerous was it? The first squadron flying out of Thailand lost all but one of its F105 fighter jets in the first 45 days.

After returning to the U.S. from his Thailand base, Pat became an instructor at various bases, taking him from Nevada to California to England to Eglin Air Force Base in Florida, where he retired in 1978 with the rank of Major, wrapping up 20 years of dedicated service to his country.

He then took a one-day vacation before joining IBM as an engineer and teacher in New Orleans, Gulfport, MS, Chicago and, finally, in Longview, Texas, which became his permanent home.

After retirement he rarely flew, but that didn't stop him from traveling across the country. He loved to drive and planned his trips meticulously, especially those annual visits to Disney World, 30 in all; some with one or two of his grandchildren, some with nieces and nephews, each visit filled with child-like joy.

Pat also loved to cook, never straying far from what he learned from his mother and sisters, whether it was gumbo or Charlotte Rousse or just grits and eggs; he approached the task with the same concentration and professionalism that he exhibited in all of his life-long activities.

He grew up the youngest brother, but in later life he became big brother to many of his nieces and nephews, calling or visiting regularly to make sure all was well.

And while Pat's home was in Longview, his heart was in Bay St. Louis, and that's where he will be buried.

Mass of Christian Burial was held Tuesday, March 10, 2020 at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis. Entombment followed at Gulf Coast Memorial Cemetery and Mausoleum.

Pat was a life-long Catholic who believed that God had a plan for him.

He is survived by his wife, Karen Jackson Favre; daughters, Marie Chantelle Wicker and Debra Michelle Favre and her two children; and daughter-in-law, Dwayne and Kim Favre and Amanda Cooper; brother, Gregory; nine other grandchildren, many nieces and nephews that he loved dearly, and two stepsons and one stepdaughter and their spouses: Kevin and Ashley Mackey, Sean and Alexandra Mackey and Leah and Charles Marcum. Wife LuAnn Harmon Favre, and eight of his siblings, A.G. Jr., Curtis, Neilus, Udell, Jeffrey, Beverly Scianina, Bruce and Inez Pope, predeceased him.

In lieu of flowers please give donations to the St. Jude Children's Hospital or to the Shriners Children Hospitals.

MICHAEL ELMORE
MORGAN GIBBENS

Michael Elmore Morgan Gibbens, son of the late Elmore Morgan Gibbens and Margaret Mulligan Gibbens died peacefully on March 2, 2020 at the age of 63.

He is survived by his daughter, Morgan Leigh Gibbens, and his five siblings, Margaret Gibbens Handy, Susan Gibbens Fish (Ronald), Jeanne Gibbens Cook (Craig), Patrick Charles Gibbens, and Thomas Benton Gibbens (Leslye). He will be sadly missed by Patricia Dickinson Gibbens, her family and many cousins, nieces, nephews and dear friends.

Mike was born in New Orleans, LA and lived in River Ridge, LA. He has been a resident of Bay St. Louis, MS since 1973. He was a parishioner of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church. He was a 1974 graduate of Bay High School and attended Jefferson Davis Junior College and the University of Southern Mississippi. He was a general contractor, M.E. Gibbens, Inc., who designed and built many homes along the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Mike worked tirelessly to help rebuild many homes and Our Lady of the Gulf Church after Hurricane Katrina. For many years he manned and managed the seafood boiling at the OLG Crab Fest. He enjoyed hunting, fishing, football games, golf and just getting together with family and good friends.

Visitation for family and friends was held on Saturday, March 7, 2020 at Our Lady of the Gulf Church, 228 South Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis, MS at 10:00 a.m., followed by a Mass of Christian Burial at noon.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that donations be made to Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

She stayed in Hawaii through the bombing of Pearl Harbor, hoping to be reunited with Horace. Finally, 7 months pregnant, she returned to New Orleans. As a child, she played the piano competitively, and even won an upright as a young teen. She loved larkspurs' bunny faces, the purples of Louisiana irises, and the first narcissus in the spring. Their house and pool were open to everyone. It was a place of fun, relaxation, and freedom. She spent her last two happy years in Waveland with her daughter Susan. We were all blessed by the love of Janice Labat during that time in Waveland. We would like to thank her for making our mother's last years happier and more comfortable. SQUARES OF CHOCOLATE DELICIOUSNESS

BY LINDA BIGLER
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Believe it or not, there are actually those living on this planet who do not like chocolate. When you come across these individuals, make them your best friends because they will give you all of their chocolate Valentine candy and Easter eggs. In return, you can give them all of your kale when Eat Nasty Kale Day comes along. I am sure they have a day set aside for that revolting plant. Brownies are relatively uncomplicated to prepare. In addition, your baking skills will be appreciated by family and friends. There is one thing you should remember when preparing these divine chocolate morsels; do not over bake them. In this first recipe, do not use an electric mixer to beat in the ingredients. Combine the ingredients using a large mixing spoon.

BASIC BROWNIES
1 cup (2 sticks) butter, melted
4 squares unsweetened chocolate, chopped
2 cups sugar
4 large eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
One half teaspoon salt
2 cups coarsely chopped toasted pecans
Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Grease a 13x9 inch baking pan and line with parchment paper. Melt butter in a microwave or on top of the stove. Place the chopped chocolate in a medium mixing bowl and pour the warm melted butter over the chocolate. Stir until chocolate melts and combines with the butter. Stir in the sugar until combined. Add the eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in the flour vanilla and salt until combined. Add the chopped nuts and blend well into the batter. Pour the brownie batter into the prepared pan, scrape the bowl well, smooth the top and bake for 30 minutes. Remove from oven and cool on a wire rack. When completely cooled, cut with a sharp knife. Makes 24

In this next recipe, you may use the above brownie recipe without the pecans or a boxed brownie mix that makes 24 brownies. These brownies contain both chocolate and peanut butter. What a unique idea.

PEANUT BUTTER LAYERED BROWNIES
Basic brownies or a 19-ounce box of brownie mix
2 cups powdered sugar
1 stick butter, softened
1 cup creamy peanut butter

6 tablespoons melted butter
1 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips
Prepare the brownies in a 13x9 inch pan greased and lined with parchment paper. Bake according to directions. Cool on a wire rack. While brownies are cooling, prepare the peanut butter layer. Cream together the powdered sugar, softened butter, and peanut butter with an electric mixer. Mix until smooth. Evenly spread over the cooled brownies. Chill while making the chocolate topping. Melt the 6 tablespoons butter in the microwave and stir the chocolate chips into the hot butter. Stir until the chips melt and combine completely with the butter. If they are not completely melted, return to the microwave for about 20 additional seconds and stir. Spread the melted chocolate mixture evenly over the peanut butter layer. Let cool until set and cut into squares. Makes 24 or 36 depending on how you cut them

The final recipe is for a brownie pie. It is a snap to prepare and delicious when topped with a scoop of ice cream.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE
BROWNIE PIE
1 – 9 inch pie crust, baked blind for 5 minutes
4 eggs, slightly beaten
2 cups sugar
2 sticks melted butter
2 cups semi-sweet chocolate chips, melted with the butter
1 cup all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1 cup lightly toasted chopped pecans
Combine eggs and sugar until well blended. Stir in the melted butter chocolate chip mixture and vanilla. Slowly stir in the flour until combined. Fold in the nuts. Pour mixture into the prepared pie shell and bake for 30 minutes. Serves 6 to 8

I try not to mix my political opinions with my recipes due to the fact that a combination of politics and food can lead to indigestion. Unfortunately, this time I need to break my rule. Whatever part of the government is in charge of changing the time twice a year: STOP! I can no longer endure this ridiculous practice. I am so old that half the time I do not know what day it is. When the time changes, it takes me several days to and figure out what time it is and to change my clocks accordingly. Thank you.

Meet Max. This handsome, 2 year old Mountain Cur mix is all about the love! We can usually find Max hanging out with our volunteers as they make their rounds spending quality time with our doggies. He is most definitely a favorite of our kennel techs, too. Max gives the best hugs, and we think he is quite the looker. His unique soft coat and striking face are even more stunning in person. So, you know what you have to do, right? Yep, come by and meet Max, take him for a walk, (he loves going for long walks), get some sweet hugs, and fall in love! We have a nice play yard that's perfect for meet-n-greets, so if you have a dog, please bring your pooch along for the introduction. Bring the kids, too. Max is great with children and other friendly dogs. We believe this sweet boy is house trained because he keeps his kennel clean and relieves himself as soon as he is taken outdoors. Max would be the perfect companion for a single person, couple, active retirees and seniors. He would be a remarkable family dog, too. So, come one, come all to 7175 Texas Flat Rd, Kiln, and meet Max. He will surely win you over. Call 228 466 4516 for more information, and visit our Facebook page, Hancock County Animal Shelter, MS, to see more pictures of Max and of the many other wonderful, adoptable animals looking for their forever homes.

KEEPING YOUR HEAD ABOVE WATER BY GARY ANDREWS

As I was watching a program on television about what one should do in emergency situations, it occurred to me that as long as we are not followers and believers in Christ Jesus, we are always in an emergency situation. The program showed a young mom and her son trying to go through some flood waters when their car became stuck and they couldn't move. As the rains continued to come down and the water started rising the car started drifting into deeper water and moving further from shore. The current was very strong and the son could not swim. As the car became more submerged neither of the passengers could get out of the car and it seemed as if their lives were soon to be over. We have people all around us every day in this type of situation. Many of us are looking to the world for the safety and well-being of our health and bodies. There are so many people in this world that know the human body will die and life will cease as we know it on earth, but how many really understand that when we leave this earth that Jesus is waiting for us in a heavenly home? Walking among us every day are people that have never heard of the saving grace of Jesus Christ. Many reject the message of Jesus and will never understand why Christians are not afraid to die. Many will live their lives without the knowledge and understanding of what Jesus will do for them and the promise of eternal life that only He can give. The young mom and her son were very fortunate that a young man saw them in the water and came to their rescue. He was able to alert the fire department for assistance but without his help these two in the car would have drown. He risked his life swimming out to them. He fought the current of the rushing water and came to the aid of these two that were struggling to keep their head above the water that had gotten into the car. We can also help those people around us by speaking up for Christ and telling those that we come into contact with about His saving grace. People are drowning every day in the sin of the world and don't understand that when life is over for them they have nothing to look forward to. Many non-Christian groups will tell you that when you leave this earth you are dead and nothing more will ever be for you or your soul. The Bible tells us a different story and we that read it understand that Jesus died for our sins and all we have to do is have faith in Him and believe in Him. The young mom and her son lived because someone cared enough to go into the water and save them. They were able to live another day and speak of their salvation experience because someone cared enough to reach out to them and pull them into safety. What about you? Are you willing to listen to the message of Jesus if someone is willing to share it with you? Are you willing to read the Bible and hear the scriptures that will help you understand the saving grace of Jesus? None of us have to leave this earth and have nowhere to go. Our bodies may die but our souls will live on in the bosom of Jesus and we will be with Him for eternity. Prayer: Thank you Jesus for the opportunity of living on this earth and then going home to be with you. I pray that I may be an example to those around me and let you grace and love show through me. Amen.

SECOND SATURDAY

It's Souper Mudfest Time in the Bay!

This Saturday, March 14, is Souper Mudfest time in Old Town Bay St. Louis. Bowls will go on sale at 3:30 p.m. Saturday at the green space at the corner of Main and Second.

BY CAITLIN BOURGEOIS AND ECHO STAFF

This Saturday, March 14, marks the Old Town Merchants Association's Second Saturday Artwalk in downtown Bay St. Louis, which is happening in conjunction with one of Old Town's most popular benefits of the year -- Souper Mudfest.

Souper Mudfest, the brainchild of Lulu's chef and owner Nancy Moynan, is set up like a bar crawl, only participants line up for soup instead of alcohol.

Each hand-crafted bowl is created by a local potter, and will be sold on the green space at Main and Second Street beginning at 3:30 p.m. A wristband will be given to all who purchase the official bowls.

Bowls have been handcrafted by more than a dozen local potters and sell for $20 each.

Bowl-buyers are provided with a list of local merchants where they'll be able to sample gourmet soups throughout the evening - for free! Just show your wristband and hold out your bowl. As always, there are two "Hot Spots" designated for the Old Town visitors. This month's Hot Spots are Bodega Spirits & Liquor on Court Street and P.J.'s Coffee at 207 Main.

There are "Hot Spot" activities scheduled from 10 a.m.-7 p.m., and there will be live music from 4-7 p.m.

BODEGA SPIRITS & LIQUOR

A bodega in almost the truest sense of the word, Bodega Spirits and Liquor is a well stocked, quiet shop in the heart of Old Town. The only liquor store in downtown Bay Saint Louis, this small store hosts a healthy stock of just about any wine or liquor one might need.

Located within the building of BODEGA, Bodega Spirits and Liquor sits on the north end of Court Street. One might go into BODEGA for a yoga class upstairs, decide to get a bite to eat at Parrot Head Bar and Grill, decide to rent a golf cart for a bit and then stumble into Bodega Spirits and Liquor to

Bodega Spirits and Liquor will be hosting a free wine tasting event for their Second Saturday Hot Spot beginning at 5 pm. Stop in to try a new blend or brand and to visit with Mr. Larry who can be found there all days that liquor may be sold. Bring your dogs along so they can be spoiled with a little treat while you enjoy a treat of your own.

Kelsey Moran will be playing on the back patio from 6-10 pm that same day. Settle in while you order a delicious meal from Parrot Head Bar and Grill and enjoy the ambience of another beautiful day in Bay Saint Louis. You can find Bodega Spirits and Liquor at 111 Court Street in Old Town from Monday to Saturday.

PJ'S COFFEE OF NEW ORLEANS

PJ's Coffee of New Orleans came onto the Old Town scene in October of 2018 bringing some big New Orleans love along with it. There is truly a little bit of something for everyone to enjoy -- flavored coffees, café au laits, smoothies and, the ever delicious, freshly baked goods.

PJ's Coffee will be hosting their Second

Jack, Glenda and Shay invite everyone to join them at Magnolia Antiques for Souper Mudfest.
